

nat off top

VO – Outside of Sallie Ellis Davis house with students outside

Interview of Rehema Karanja

VO – Sallie Ellis Davis Portrait

VO – Sallie Ellis Davis hallway with cot bed

VO- Dr. Sidonia Serafini working with students

Interview of Sidonia Serafini

VO- Intro to Black Studies Class starting to work

VO- Class working on project and Dr.

--Nat Sound

==TRACK==

SALLIE ELLIS DAVIS'S HOME WAS A PLACE OF HOPE FOR AFRICAN AMERICAN CHILDREN DURING SEGREGATION.

Soundbite of Rehema

She was teaching during segregation and these black students needed an education. It's important for black people to help their community and she was really doing that."

--Nat Sound

==TRACK==

SALLIE ELLIS DAVIS WAS AN EDUCATOR WHO WORKED AT EDDY HIGH SCHOOL.

SHE PROVIDED HOUSING FOR HER STUDENTS THAT LIVED FAR FROM THE SCHOOL.

==TRACK==

HER WORK INSPIRED BLACK HISTORY PROFESSOR DR. SIDONIA SERAFINI TO LEAD HER CLASS IN RESEARCHING SOME OF THE LIVES OF SALLIE ELLIS DAVIS' STUDENTS.

Soundbite of Sidonia Serafini

I chose this project on the Sallie Ellis Davis House because the class is focused on archives and public history, and I wanted to focus on making local African American history visible."

--Nat Sound

==TRACK==

HER CLASS SPENT THE LAST FEW WEEKS TRACING HER STUDENT'S GENEALOGY.

THE STUDENTS USED ANCESTRY.COM AND HER GRADEBOOKS TO LOOK FOR SALLIE'S STUDENTS

Serafini helping them VO-Classroom in Sallie Ellis Davis house Interview with Trinidy Battle	BETWEEN THE YEARS 1928-1930. --Nat Sound ==TRACK== THE STUDENTS FOUND THE KNOWLEDGE OF SALLIE ELLIS DAVIS AND HER STUDENTS A GOOD THING TO LEARN. Soundbite of Trinidy Battle She represents a demographic that's not very talked about very much in history books. She was a black school teacher and to know that a black school teacher lived down the road from GCSU is just awesome because it shows me that my people did a lot of things that I wasn't even aware of. Because they don't teach it often." ==TRACK== PROJECTS LIKE THESE KEEP HISTORY ALIVE BY PROVIDING A FURTHER LOOK INTO THE PAST.
--	--